From leadership

It is a privilege to reflect on another significant year for the Centre Against Domestic Abuse (CADA) and the important work undertaken by our staff and leadership team.

CADA continues to provide critical support to thousands of people experiencing domestic and family violence across our community. The ongoing demand for our services reflects the significant need within our region and the importance of the specialised, compassionate and professional support delivered by our dedicated team each day.

This year has been focused on building on the strong foundations established over recent years. We have continued to strengthen our governance, organisational structures and service delivery, ensuring CADA is well positioned to respond to the growing and changing needs of our community.

As Board Chair, I want to acknowledge our CEO and leadership team, and particularly our dedicated staff, whose commitment and professionalism are at the heart of CADA's work. I also thank my fellow Board members for their ongoing contribution and commitment to CADA's purpose.

I would like to acknowledge and thank our funding partners, supporters and the wider community for their continued commitment to CADA and the work we undertake. Their support enables us to continue providing vital services to those experiencing domestic and family violence and to advocate for meaningful change across our community.

Together, we continue to work towards a community where everyone can live free from domestic and family violence.

Tony Latter

Tony Latter, President

"You are not alone."

At CADA, a few years ago, we were developing a resource and invited women with lived experience of domestic, family and sexual violence (DFSV) to provide feedback. During the review process, they gave us some very important advice. They asked us to include the line: "You are not alone."

It was what they wanted and needed to hear, so it was added.

As wisdom goes, it was, and still is, something we all need to hear.

This year at CADA, as we continue to learn and grow, collaboration and inclusion remain at the heart of our work. Working in DFSV can often feel like a vocation of isolation, pushing a boulder up a very steep mountain.

Yet we have achieved so much over the last year. A new home at Morayfield. An incredible workforce. Strong partnerships and connections. We have celebrated and we have mourned.

The work continues and increases. It is complex and devastating. The numbers, our clients and our community tell us that we are an essential service in Moreton Bay. Every day, we witness strength, grit and extraordinary fortitude.

Thank you to our Board. Thank you to our funders and donors. Thank you to our staff. Once again, you have been our backbone. Thank you to our community for trusting us.

CADA will continue to flourish with the support of those with lived experience guiding our way.

We are not alone.

Our teams

Children, Young People and Families

The team goes through approximately 100kg of modelling clay in a year!

Children are often among those most deeply impacted by domestic, family and sexual violence, making early intervention and recovery support critical. At the heart of the team's work is the understanding that meaningful change happens when children and young people feel safe, heard and understood.

From play therapy and creative arts to sensory activities, school based programs and holiday groups, the team uses a wide range of therapeutic approaches to help children engage in ways that feel natural and safe. As the team often reflects, sometimes healing looks less like sitting and talking and more like creating, exploring, making a mess and experiencing the joy of simply being a child.

Working across individual, family and school based settings, practitioners create safe and trusting environments where support is delivered in a variety of ways, recognising that every child's journey to recovery is different.

Crisis and Court Support

The Crisis Team is one of the organisation's largest teams, providing immediate assistance, risk assessment, safety planning, advocacy and practical support to victim survivors experiencing domestic, family and sexual violence.

Comprised of practitioners, specialist roles, identified positions and court support workers, the team brings together extensive knowledge, experience and compassion. No two days are the same, with team members walking alongside people through some of the most difficult and uncertain times in their lives. Whether someone is seeking help for the first time or taking the next step towards safety, the Crisis Team is there to listen, respond and connect them with the services and resources they need.

Made up of 35 people spanning multiple generations, cultures, professional backgrounds and lived experiences, the team sees diversity as one of its greatest strengths. One team member reflected on supporting a woman who had experienced domestic and family violence for more than 40 years. Her story highlights the importance of walking alongside victim survivors at their own pace and the value of a connected service system that can respond to changing needs at different stages of their journey.

Alongside their dedication and professionalism, the team values connection, humour and reflection, creating a supportive culture that helps sustain and strengthen this important work.

It takes 200+ squishy and fidget toys to help the team navigate the day.

Our teams

High Risk Team

HRT share their office with an aquatic support crew:

Stevie Nicks the sucker fish, gouramis Meredith Grey and Christina Yang and five tetras collectively known as Hi-5.

The High Risk Team (HRT) plays a vital role in coordinating responses for people experiencing serious domestic and family violence risk. As the lead agency for the High Risk Team in Moreton, CADA works closely with partner organisations across the service system to strengthen information sharing, improve safety planning and ensure victim survivors receive coordinated support when they need it most.

Partners include:
Queensland Police Service, Queensland Corrective Services, Queensland Health, Courts, Child Safety, Housing, Victims Assist Queensland and Youth Justice

Together their different perspectives, expertise and resources support people experiencing the highest levels of risk and lethality.

The impact of this work is seen in the way services come together around a person. The team highlighted how together they strengthen a client's voice, increase confidence in the support system and contribute to a coordinated response.

Operations and Compliance

Much of the team's work happens behind the scenes, but its impact is felt across every area of the organisation.

The Operations and Compliance team is the engine room of CADA, providing the systems, structure and support that keep the organisation running every day. From the smiling face that welcomes clients and visitors through the front door to the behind the scenes work that keeps services, technology and people connected, the team touches almost every part of the organisation.

This year the team oversaw office relocations, employee onboarding and offboarding, payroll, finance, administration, contract and funding management, procurement, IT systems, training as well as audit and compliance activities. They also coordinated key events and forums, managed donations and donor relationships, supported client communications and delivered CADA's marketing, communications and graphic design functions.

The launch of our Pet Policy made the workplace a little more pawsitive, creating space for multiple dogs, a parrot and even a lizard!

Our teams

PRADO

The PRADO team provides specialist domestic and family violence support within 6 Queensland Police Service (QPS) stations, helping victim survivors access timely support, information and advocacy during some of the most challenging times in their lives. Working alongside QPS members, the team bridges the gap between policing responses and community support services, ensuring people can access the right support as early as possible.

PRADO support clients to navigate police and legal processes, understand their options, strengthen safety and connect with services that can support longer term wellbeing.

The PRADO team responded to approximately 5,000

referrals from QPS

Women's Wellbeing Hub

The Women's Wellbeing Hub (WWBH) team provides trauma informed therapeutic support for women who have experienced domestic, family and sexual violence, helping them heal from trauma, build confidence and strengthen connections with others. Through individual support, short term therapeutic interventions and group programs, the team delivers services tailored to each woman's unique needs and stage of recovery.

The greatest impact is often reflected in the confidence, understanding and sense of connection women gain through these programs. Time and again, women tell us that connecting with others who share similar experiences helps them realise they are not alone, creating powerful opportunities for healing, reflection and hope.

Demand for the service remains high, highlighting the ongoing need for accessible, trauma informed support for women across our community.

Specialist teams

Advocate

The Advocate Team provides independent support, information and advocacy for women whose partners are participating in a Men's Behaviour Change Program. By maintaining a woman centred focus, the team ensures women have their own connection to support, with safety, choice and empowerment at the centre.

Despite its small size, the team plays a vital role in helping women understand their options, navigate complex systems and make informed decisions about their safety and wellbeing.

Consortium

The Consortium Counselling Service provides therapeutic counselling support for people experiencing a broad range of challenges and life circumstances. Delivered by a counsellor based at CADA as part of a wider network of counselling providers across the Moreton region, the service helps increase access to counselling close to where people live.

One of the unique aspects of the role is the ability to support people who may not yet be ready or able to leave a relationship that is unsafe. Counselling provides a space for people to explore their experiences, better understand relationship dynamics and consider their options at their own pace.

The focus is on creating a safe, non judgemental environment where people feel heard, supported and empowered.

Specialist teams

Domestic and Family Violence Family Response Facilitator

CADA's Domestic and Family Violence Family Response Facilitator role has been embedded within Mercy Family Services Family and Child Connect (FACC) team since 2016 through a partnership approach that strengthens responses to families experiencing domestic, family and sexual violence. The specialist DFV position embedded within a mainstream family service, provides an important bridge between specialist domestic violence support and broader family services.

Through consultation, secondary support and collaborative practice, working across both FACC and CADA the role responds to families experiencing violence.

This approach focuses on building strong relationships, fostering collaboration, and creating environments where children, young people and families are at the centre of decision making and support.

Children and young people remain a key focus of this work, ensuring their safety, wellbeing and voices are prioritised in responses to domestic, family and sexual violence while strengthening support for families.

Learning, Capability and Innovation (LCI)

This year marked the establishment of CADA's Learning, Capability and Innovation (LCI) team, bringing together learning, reflection, research and innovation to strengthen practice across the organisation. The team transforms evidence, emerging research and community insights into practical tools, resources and learning opportunities that support staff, services and the broader community.

A key focus has been creating intentional spaces for learning, professional growth and reflective practice. Through training, community education, resource development, report and submission writing and shared learning opportunities, the team helps staff build capability, stay connected to best practice and respond effectively to the needs of victim survivors, children and families.

The team plays an important role in elevating lived and living experience voices within service design, learning and organisational development.

Specialist teams

Safety Upgrades

The Safety Upgrades Program (SUP) helps victim survivors improve their safety through the provision of security equipment and practical home safety solutions. Often working behind the scenes, the team plays a vital role in helping people feel safer and more secure in their homes and communities.

Every property presents unique challenges and team members regularly develop solutions to suit individual circumstances. Whether supporting someone living on a rural property or identifying practical ways to enhance safety within a complex home environment, the team combines technical expertise with a strong understanding of client needs.

The program also works closely with specialist DFV services in Mackay, Rockhampton and Townsville, as well as local service providers. These partnerships extend the reach of the program for victim survivors both within and beyond the Moreton Bay region.

This year we:

- Supported 843 clients
- Distributed over 3500 boxes of security equipment
- Completed 12 stock takes to maintain safe and efficient inventory management
- Got a new purpose built storage space

Working groups

Donations

"Every donation is more than an item or a dollar. It's a reminder that our community cares, that people want to be part of the solution and that together we can create hope for families affected by domestic and family violence."

The Donations Working Group helps connect the generosity of the community to those supported by CADA. Working closely with businesses, schools, community groups and individual donors, the group coordinates donations, builds partnerships and creates opportunities for people to make a meaningful difference.

This year, the Donations Working Group:

- Coordinated approximately 90 product donations
- Received more than 60 cash donations
- Helped ensure practical resources were available when they were needed most
- Provided essentials, Christmas gifts, comfort, choice and support

Beyond the donations themselves, the group helps foster important community conversations about domestic and family violence. Many supporters choose to give because of a personal connection to the issue or a belief that everyone deserves to live a life free from violence.

Funshine

Established in 2022 through the Thrive Framework, the Funshine Working Group was created to strengthen staff wellbeing, connection and workplace culture across CADA. Originally known as the Wellbeing Team, the group adopted the name Funshine to better reflect its focus on creating moments of joy, connection and celebration.

From Potato Day and Fairy Bread Day to Halloween door decorating and the much loved Zen Room, Funshine creates opportunities for staff to pause, connect and enjoy time together. Competition winners are awarded Sam, the travelling Funshine trophy (they/them), adding a touch of friendly competition along the way.

Supporting people impacted by domestic and family violence can be both challenging and emotionally demanding. In this environment, moments of connection play an important role in sustaining wellbeing. By encouraging laughter and a sense of belonging, Funshine helps foster the positive workplace culture that makes CADA such a special place to work.

Working groups

RAP

The Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) Working Group plays an important role in supporting CADA's commitment to reconciliation, cultural safety and meaningful engagement with First Nations peoples and communities. Established in 2021, the group works alongside staff, leadership and the Board to help ensure reconciliation is reflected across the organisation's governance, practices and decision making.

This year, the group has supported opportunities for staff to learn, connect and engage with culture and communities. Growing participation in cultural events, including NAIDOC Week celebrations, has helped foster greater awareness, understanding and connection across the organisation.

The Working Group also helps keep CADA accountable to its reconciliation commitments, recognising that cultural safety is a shared responsibility.

Social Media

The Social Media Working Group was created to strengthen CADA's connection with the community and develop a more coordinated approach to the organisation's online presence. By creating a consistent look, feel and voice across platforms, the group helps share the stories, services and people behind CADA's work.

This year, CADA's online community:

- Grew to more than 2,000 Facebook followers and 1,000 Instagram followers
- Shared a mix of educational content, community updates and staff stories
- Connected with the community through popular features such as Furry Fridays

Beyond raising awareness of CADA's services and events, social media helps showcase the people, stories and impact behind the organisation, creating authentic connections with the communities we serve.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Members of Centre Against Domestic Abuse Inc.

Report on the Audit of the Financial Report

Opinion

We have audited the financial report of Centre Against Domestic Abuse Inc. which comprises the statement of financial position as at 30 June 2026, the statement of comprehensive income, statement of changes in equity and statement of cash flows for the year then ended, and notes to the financial statements, including material accounting policy information, and the Responsible Persons' Declaration.

In our opinion the financial report of Centre Against Domestic Abuse Inc. has been prepared in accordance with Division 60 of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012, including:

(a) giving a true and fair view of the Association's financial position as at 30 June 2026 and of its performance for the year ended on that date; and

(b) complying with Australian Accounting Standards to the extent described in Note 1, and Division 60 of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Regulations 2022.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Report section of our report. We are independent of the Association in accordance with the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012 (ACNC Act) and the ethical requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board's APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including Independence Standards) (the Code) that are relevant to our audit of the financial report in Australia. We have also fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the Code.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Emphasis of Matter – Basis of Accounting

We draw attention to Note 1 to the financial report, which describes the basis of accounting. The financial report has been prepared for the purpose of fulfilling the Association's financial reporting responsibilities under the ACNC Act. As a result, the financial report may not be suitable for another purpose. Our opinion is not modified in respect of this matter.

Responsibilities of the Management for the Financial Report

The management of the Association are responsible for the preparation of the financial report that gives a true and fair view and have determined that the basis of preparation described in Note 1 to the financial report is appropriate to meet the requirements of the ACNC Act and the needs of the members. The management responsibility also includes such internal control as the members determine is necessary to enable the preparation of a financial report that gives a true and fair view and is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial report, the members are responsible for assessing the Association's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing as applicable, matters relating to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the management either intend to liquidate the Association or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Association's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Report

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial report as a whole is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Australian Auditing Standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial report.

As part of an audit in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial report, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.

- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Association's internal control.

- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the members.

- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and based, on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Association's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial report or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Association to cease to continue as a going concern.

- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial report, including the disclosures, and whether the financial report represents the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

Independence

We confirm that the independence declaration required by the ACNC Act, which has been given to the members of Centre Against Domestic Abuse Inc., would be in the same terms if given to the members as at the time of this auditor's report.
